Medtech company ScientificMed announces the appointment of two new board members Josefin Landgård and Martin Olovsson

ScientificMed, with focus on cancer drug treatments, strengthens leadership with the addition of two new Board Members, Josefin Landgård and Martin Olovsson, and the Senior Business Advisor Annika Espander.

“We see an increased demand for our digital treatment platform for support and improvement of cancer drug treatments both nationally and internationally. We are delighted that these three experienced and capable leaders have agreed to join our Board and Advisory Board and look forward to working with them on commercialization and internationalization.”, says Jan Fjellström, CEO and co-founder of ScientificMed.

Josefin Landgård has co-founded a range of companies, including the digital healthcare provider KRY.

“I engage in ScientificMed because I found it very exciting that it’s possible with digital tools to improve and prolong the lives of cancer patients. The company has a profound knowledge and experience within this area and I would like to contribute in the scaling up of the business”, says Josefin Landgård.

Martin Olovsson is CEO and co-founder of AstraZeneca’s spin-out company OnDosis developing and commercializing a connected handheld dosing device platform for oral medicines. He is also a board member of Aqilion (a Swedish life science company) and WntResearch (a cancer drug research company).

“The combination of personalized medicine, health technology and greater patient engagement is driving a paradigm shift in the way treatments are delivered. Through an early collaboration with ScientificMed, I was impressed by the teams’ visionary view to the future of healthcare. What was back then a vision is now on its way to becoming implemented in clinical practice. Supporting the company in the critical next phase of developing and scaling the offering will be exciting, and I truly look forward to supporting the company on the journey ahead”, says Martin Olovsson.

Annika Espander joins the Advisory Board as a Senior Business Advisor. She has more than 25 years of experience as an analyst and has held multiple executive positions within the pharmaceutical and financial industries. She has served on the board of directors for several companies including Elekta, Lifco, Symphogen, Biotage, Probi, Stille, and Cellartis.
